Second blizzard howls through weary Okla., Ark. us a world

PUERTO RICO Daily Sun

Lohan pleads not guilty to felony theft

ARTS & LIVING PAGE 17

7, NO. 536 THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 2011

Sticks vs. speech

Violence mars UPR paint-in, 21 arrested

LOCAL PAGES 3-4

Daily Sun/Humberto Trías

A police officer collars a student at the University of Puerto Rico, Río Piedras campus, Wednesday after a policewoman photographed one of them painting slogans on the pavement. Several students were roughed up and injured by police, who arrested 21 students.

OBJECTIVE REPORTING IS OUR LEGACY

PUERTO RICO DAILY SUN

Student vigil caps day of violence

"We shall overcome" the last word

BY JUAN A. HERNÁNDEZ ihernandez@prdailvsun.net

iolence escalated Wednesday noon at the University of Puerto Rico after students and police clashed over the painting of slogans on the street in front of the José M. Lázaro Library.

More than 50 students were painting messages on the asphalt of what has come to be known as "Conscience Street" in front of the university library when a police officer started videotaping the activity. Indignant, some of the students questioned the reasons for his keeping tabs on them.

"We are not doing anything wrong.
We are just painting here. We have the right to do so," said one of the students to the policewoman holding the video camera, who was immediately flanked by a group of some 12 police

The situation turned violent when one of the students allegedly tried to take the camera from the officer, while others shouted insults to the group of agents. Almost immediately, a riot police squad came onto the scene and without any previous warning some started beating the students with ball of their metal-tipped batons.

In similar situations riot police have been mobilized in a phalanx formation to create a perimeter and gain control of the area, but on Wednesday afternoon the orders seemed different. Some 30 officers charged down on the students wielding their batons indis-criminately and hitting anyone within

Many of the students fled from the scene to a safer distance while others sought refuge in the library. Others yet stayed their ground and confronted the police. Some of the students flung the paint containers at the advancing police staining many of them, or threw stones at them. Others even resorted to handto- hand combat, managing to grab one or two riot police by the neck and hitting them until they could take them to the ground.

Students not participating in the demonstration were also pushed, hit and arrested by the police if they questioned or resisted the actions. In the end, 21 students were arrested and to different police stations throughout the San Juan metropolitan area. Female students were taken to the Cupey Police Station, while the others were taken to the Loiza Street and Monte Hatillo stations. Charges against the arrested students were undisclosed.

Daily Sun/Humberto Trías

The symbolic University of Puerto Rico tower, from which hangs the handpainted banner, Venceremos, "We shall overcome, dominates the scene Wednesday night.

Earlier, a group of university employ-ees affiliated to the Brotherhood of Exempt and Non-Teaching Employees (HEEND for its Spanish acronym) had stormed into the lobby of campus chan-cellor Ana R. Guadalupe's office and staged a sit-in while announcing their intention of staying there until the police was ordered off the campus.

man that the straight his his hard had been and the straight and

At the same time, university professors affiliated with the Puerto Rican Association of University Professors (APPU for its Spanish acronym) had been trying to meet with Guadalupe in an effort to negotiate an end to the "harassment, persecution and physical abuse against university students, teachers and employees." By 5 p.m., Guadalupe had not agreed to the meet-

PLEASE SEE "UPR," PAGE 4

This young student leaving tennis practice makes a frantic cell phone call after being harassed by police on her way out of Río Piedras campus.

Daily Sun/Humberto Trias

This policeman covered with paint from student retaliation stands at the ready at UPR Wednessday.

FROM PAGE 3

UPR

"We are announcing a 24-hour work stoppage, starting today [Wednesday] at 3 p.m. to protest police presence in our university" said APPU president María Gisela Rosa-

In a written statement distributed to the press, Guadalupe condemned the day's violence and urged that "wisdom and prudence" prevail.

"This is a moment to come together in our commitment, as academicians, to face these times of hardship affecting our institution," said Guadalupe.

The chancellor denounced the student and labor leadership's actions of the day, falling short of blaming them for "vandalism," referring to the painting of the street.

Guadalupe called the announced APPU work stoppage "illegal," and urged all university personnel to come to work today [Thursday] and comply with their duties and reeponsibilities responsibilities.

Guadalupe said the police will continue to stay on campus to guarantee institutional order.

The day ended with a march of citizens, many dressed in white, who entered the campus to take part in a vigil in solidarity with the students and to demand that police be ordered off the UPR campuses. During the vigil, a group of students gained access to the university tower and unfurled a gigantic black banner that reached from the tower balcony to the ground reading "VENCEREMOS" (We shall overcome).

Daily Sun/Humberto

Police line up on Conscience Street at the University of Puerto Rico Wednesday, tramping on the slogans which started the violence. They say "UPR is mine, machista government are cowards and strawberries."

Large numbers of family and friends, including politicians and artists, mobilize for the Solidarity Train, which brought them to the UPR and took them all together away from the scene of the confrontation.

Diana Vega, the mother of a University of Puerto Rico student, raises up a prayer for an end to the confrontation in front of a phalanx of armed guards who clashed with slogan painters on campus Wednesday.

Daily Sun/Vicente Vélez

PERSPECTIV

DDAYinHISTOF

The police must leave campus

he latest events at the University of Puerto Rico have made evident, even to the most conservative, that the administration's heavy-handed policy towards the students is abusive, ineffective and plainly wrong.

The indiscriminate aggression of police riot squads against students, who are exercising their constitutional rights in public areas without interfering with any academic or administrative activity, is a gross violation of their rights and an act comparable only to the acts of the dictatorships we all denounce and reject.

By persisting in the use of brute force to impose order at the UPR, Gov. Fortuño's administration has dealt a blow not only to the concept of free speech, but to the principles governing university education. By no means can the development of critical thinking, effective communication and social responsibility be achieved with a police contingent watching over every hallway, every library, every plaza and even every student group with the pretext of "keeping the institutional

How has the university's institutional order been breached? Were the students rioting? Were they pulling other students from their classrooms? No. They were painting messages on the asphalt on one of the campus streets. Painting messages, along with distributing leaflets or publishing a newspaper, are constitutionally protected activities. Were the students interrupting traffic? Yes. And now we have to decide whether the inconvenience of having to circle around an area in our cars outweighs the benefits of freedom of speech. At the Daily Sun we consider the choice to

Is this to be the new institutional order? Police every 100 feet? The right to free speech reduced to the 100 square feet between the two police officers? Has the UPR become the testing grounds for this new institutional order?

We do not want this new order, neither for our university, the Capitol, La Fortaleza or our neighborhoods. We reject it with all our might. Exercising our freedom of speech, our freedom of association, is not a crime.

UPR president José Ramón De La Torre and Río Piedras campus Chancellor Ana R. Guadalupe, and all the other UPR system's chancellors for that matter, must order the police out of the university. Like the students chant in their slogans, the university should not be, cannot become "a mil-

And once real institutional order is restored, De La Torre, Guadalupe, the system's chancellors, and the Board of Trustees should submit their resignations for having endangered Puerto Rico's most successful social project since its foundation in 1903.

The Daily Sun

Maintananca, Estimates o Info. Call 787-509-931:

space. Cell 787-257-2866 www.storeshell.com

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

doday is Thursday, Feb. 10, the 41st day of 2011. There are 324 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: On Feb. 10, 1949, Arthur Miller's play "Death of a Salesman" opened at Broadway's Morosco Theater with Lee J. Cobb as Willy

On this date:

In 1763, Britain, Spain and France signed the Treaty of Paris, ending the Seven Years' War.

In 1840, Britain's Queen Victoria married Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha

In 1841, Upper Canada and Lower Canada were proclaimed united under an Act of Union passed by the British Parlia-

In 1942, the former French liner Normandie capsized in New York Harbor a day after it caught fire while being refitted for the U.S. Navy.

In 1959, a major Tornado tore through the St. Louis, Mo., area, killing 21 people and causing heavy damage.

In 1962, the Soviet Union exchanged captured American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Rudolf Abel, a Soviet spy held by the United States.

In 1967, the 25th Amendment to the Constitution, dealing with presidential disability and succession, was ratified as Minnesota and Nevada adopted it.

In 1968, U.S. figure skater Peggy Fleming won America's only gold medal of the Winter Olympic Games in Grenoble,

In 1981, eight people were killed when a fire set by a busboy broke out at the Las Vegas Hilton hotel-casino.

In 2005, playwright Arthur Miller died in Roxbury, Conn., at age 89 on the 56th anniversary of the Broadway opening of his "Death of a Salesman."

Ten years ago: The space shuttle Atlantis' astronauts installed the $1.4 billion Destiny laboratory on the international space station. Former New York City Mayor Abraham D. Beame died at age 94.

Five years ago: Former federal disaster chief Michael Brown told a Senate committee he had alerted the White House to how bad things were in the wake of Hurricane Katrina, and agreed with senators who said he'd been made a scapegoat for government failures. The Winter Olympics opened in Turin, Italy, with cross-country skier and gold medalist Stefania Belmondo lighting the caldron. Dr. Norman Shumway, who'd performed Norman Edward Shumway was a pioneer of heart surgery at Stanford University. In collaboration with Randall B. Griepp, he was the first doctor to successfully carry out a heart transplant operation in the United States in 1968, after Christiaan Barnard's 1967 operation in South Africa.

One year ago: Shuttle Endeavour arrived to a warm welcome at the international space station, delivering a new room and observation deck. Former Texas Congressman Charlie Wilson, whose funding of Afghanistan's resistance to the Soviet Union was chronicled in the movie and book "Charlie Wilson's War," died in Dallas at age 76.

Today's Birthdays: Opera singer Leontyne Price is 84. Actor Robert Wagner is 81. Rock musician Don Wilson (The Ventures) is 78. Singer Roberta Flack is 74. Singer Jimmy Merchant (Frankie Lymon and the Teenagers) is 71. Rock musician Bob Spalding (The Ventures) is 64. Olympic gold-medal swimmer Mark Spitz is 61. Walt Disney Co. president and chief executive Robert Iger is 60. World Golf Hall of Famer Greg Norman is 56. Country singer Lionel Cartwright is 51. Movie director Alexander Payne is 50. ABC News correspondent George Stephanopoulos is 50. Political commentator Glenn Beck is 47. Actress Laura Dern is 44. Country singer Dude Mowrey is 39. Actress Elizabeth Banks is 37. Pop singer Rosanna Taverez (Eden's Crush) is 34. Country musician Jeremy Baxter (Carolina Rain) is 31. Rock singer Eric Dill is 29. Rock musician Ben Romans (The Click Five) is 29. Actress Emma Roberts is 20. Actress Makenzie Vega is 17. Actress Chloe Moretz is 14.

Thought for Today: "Morality is moral Horizateus American journalist (1866-1936). Helga Valentin 797-906-4155